BROWN V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF TOPEKA: THE CASE OF THE CENTURY

In this landmark case, the U.S. Supreme Court declared racial segregation of public schools to be unlawful under the Constitution of the United States. The Brown decision altered the daily lives of black and white Americans, laid a foundation of equal rights and opportunities for all, and shines as a beacon to all Americans and to the rest of the world, demonstrating that the ideals in the Declaration of Independence and the tenets of the U.S. Constitution will be universally applied to all citizens.
Teacher Materials included.

MIRANDA V. ARIZONA

This decision reversed an Arizona court's conviction of Ernesto Miranda on kidnapping and rape charges. The case made it all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court, where the conviction was overturned. In a landmark ruling issued in 1966, the court established that the accused have the right to remain silent and that prosecutors may not use statements made by defendants while in police custody unless the police have advised them of their rights, commonly known as Miranda Rights.

NEW YORK TIMES V. SULLIVAN

In the 1964 case of New York Times v. Sullivan, the U.S. Supreme Court underlined the importance of a free, robust, inquiring, and possibly critical press to the healthy functioning of a democratic society. The decision used the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution to put tight limits on the ability of public officials to punish press critics through the use of libel suits.
